

Morning Star Aviation Safety, LLC

Presents: Master and Commander Conference

Command/Leadership for Captains
October 24 – 26, 2007
Denver, Colorado USA

This conference is designed to update your knowledge of captain command and leadership skills that will enhance the overall effectiveness of the entire crew and provide higher quality coordination with adjacent working groups like ATC, dispatchers, mechanics, gate and ramp agents and others.

Educators and Students receive discounts!

Presentations from:

- Captain Al Haynes – United Airlines flight 232 Sioux City, Iowa. Retired
- Captain Mike Taylor – FedEx
- Captain Carl Carlson – Horizon Air
- Roger Coleman – Aviation Media Consultants and American Airlines Retired
- Captain John Bauer – Continental Airlines Human Factors
- Captain Scott Schleiffer – ALPA Executive Vice Chairman Central Air Safety
- Others to be announced

Who should attend?

- Aviation/Aerospace professionals
- Pilots – in any status Student through ATP
- Airline/Corporate flight operations, training and standards departments
- Any certified pilot training organization from all nations
- Aircraft manufactures providing pilot training
- Aviation College and University staff and students
- FAA operations inspectors
- NTSB field investigators
- Any organizations interested in aeronautics related education

Register at: www.morningstaraviation.net

Click on the Conferences Link to register.

Registration Fees:

Aviation/Aerospace Professionals	$265
Educators and Faculty	$215
Students	$165

Conference Hotel: Marriott Denver City Center

You will learn what effective captains really do to enhance flight operations safety, flight crew effectiveness and efficiency.