Please provide any additional information about or descriptions of the supervised clinical experiences:

In the College of Education, student teaching experiences are conducted using a co-teaching model, and teacher candidates and cooperating teachers are trained in co-teaching methods. These methods encourage comprehensive mentoring throughout the student teaching experience. Additionally, student teachers placed in our Partner School Districts receive mentoring from Teachers on Special Assignment and Supervisors (adjunct and full-time faculty) most who are trained in mentoring through New Teacher Center professional development training and Cognitive Coaching. The New Teacher Center tools facilitate data collection and ongoing assessment of the efficacy of mentoring practices. Moreover, these data sources are embedded into a multiple measures portfolio and used to evaluate candidate performance and program effectiveness. Number of students in supervised clinical experience and Number of cooperating teachers and staff supervising represent the number of placements made before the move to remote learning across the State of Minnesota in March 2020.

Teachers Prepared

On this page, enter the number of program completers by the subject area in which they were prepared to teach, and by their academic majors. Note that an individual can be counted in more than one academic major and subject area. For example, if an individual is prepared to teach Elementary Education and Mathematics, that individual should be counted in both subject areas. If no individuals were prepared in a particular academic major or subject area, you may leave the cell blank. Please use the "Other" category sparingly, if there is no similar subject area or academic major listed. In these cases, you should use the text box to describe the subject area(s) and/or the academic major(s) counted in the "Other" category.

If your IHE offers both traditional and alternative programs, be sure to enter the program completers in the appropriate reports. For the traditional report, provide only the program completers in traditional programs within the IHE. For the alternative report, provide only the program completers for the alternative programs within the IHE.

After entering the teachers prepared data, save the page using the floating save box at the bottom of the page.

Teachers Prepared by Subject Area

Please provide the number of teachers prepared by subject area for academic year 2019-20.

For the purposes of this section, number prepared means the number of program completers. "Subject area" refers to the subject area(s) an individual has been prepared to teach. An individual can be counted in more than one subject area. If no individuals were prepared in a particular subject area, please leave that cell blank. (§205\(b\)\(1\)\(H\))

What are CIP codes? The Classification of Instructional Programs (CIP) provides a taxonomic scheme that supports the accurate tracking and reporting of fields of study and program completions activity. CIP was originally developed by the U.S. Department of Education's National Center for Education Statistics (NCES) in 1980, with revisions occurring in 1985, 1990, and 2000 (<https://nces.ed.gov/ipeds/cipcode/Default.aspx?y=55>).

Teachers Prepared by Academic Major

Please provide the number of teachers prepared by academic major for academic year 2019-20. For the purposes of this section, number prepared means the number of program completers. "Academic major" refers to the actual major(s) declared by the program completer. An individual can be counted in more than one academic major. If no individuals were prepared in a particular academic major, please leave that cell blank. (§205\(b\)\(1\)\(H\))

Please note that the list of majors includes several "Teacher Education" majors, as well as several noneducation majors. Please use care in entering your majors to ensure education-specific majors and non-education majors are counted correctly. For example, if an individual majored in Chemistry, that individual should be counted in the "Chemistry" academic major category rather than the "Teacher Education–Chemistry" category.

Program Assurances

THIS PAGE INCLUDES:

>> Program Assurances

Respond to the following assurances. Teacher preparation programs should be prepared to provide documentation and evidence, when requested, to support the following assurances. (§205\(a\)\(1\)\(A\)\(iii\); §206\(b\))

2. Preparation is closely linked with the needs of schools and the instructional decisions new teachers face in the classroom.

- Yes
 No

3. Prospective special education teachers are prepared in core academic subjects and to instruct in core academic subjects.

- Yes
 No
 Program does not prepare special education teachers

4. Prospective general education teachers are prepared to provide instruction to students with disabilities.

6. Prospective general education teachers are prepared to provide instruction to students from low-income families.

- Yes
 No

7. Prospective teachers are prepared to effectively teach in urban and rural schools, as applicable.

- Yes

8. Describe your institution's most successful strategies in meeting the assurances listed above:

The College of Education attends to the needs of local agencies in part through the Governance Council. The Governance Council is composed of the College of Education Dean, the Director of the Center for Educator Partnerships and Student Support and partner district Superintendents. The council meets regularly to discuss shared interests in P-20 education. Council members exchange ideas and provide valuable feedback about our programs and the needs of local districts. In partnership with the council, the college monitors trends in enrollment, completion, and teacher shortage areas. In addition to the participation of the superintendents in the Governance Council, program faculty convene advisory boards to inform programmatic decision making. For example, a Special Education (SPED) Advisory Board meets regularly to report needs and trends for special education, and local SPED directors participate in focus groups to inform faculty on instructional needs and trends. In addition, University Supervisors who make regular site visits in schools reflect on the instances and patterns they observe. The college also uses survey data to monitor the perceptions of school administrators with regard to teacher preparation. The college ensures breadth, depth, and overall quality of its preparation programs by following the Minnesota standards and rules for licensure programs. The Professional Education Licensing and Standards Board requires programs to prepare teachers who can create instructional opportunities adapted to students with diverse backgrounds and abilities. To meet these standards, program faculty align coursework to the Minnesota Standards of Effective Practice. In addition, candidates engage in extended field experiences with trained and skilled mentors, in service learning, in case studies with reflection, and in context assignments with diverse populations. Teacher candidates are also prepared through multiple, unique, and increasingly in-depth field experiences and student teaching placements. These placements are made intentionally in consultation with candidates, districts, and faculty. These placements provide opportunities for candidates to learn to teach effectively in urban and rural schools and to prepare effective instruction for learners with a range of needs. Teacher candidates are trained, evaluated, and coached by university faculty, cooperating teachers, and university supervisors. Moreover, supervisors participate in the Teacher Candidate Support Network, which meets regularly to engage in reflection and action, to share data and other information, and to ask and answer questions about effective teacher preparation.

Annual Goals: Mathematics

Each institution of higher education (IHE) that conducts a traditional teacher preparation program (including programs that offer any ongoing professional development programs) or alternative route teacher preparation program, and that enrolls students receiving Federal assistance under this Act, shall set annual quantifiable goals for increasing the number of prospective teachers trained in teacher shortage areas designated by the Secretary or by the state educational agency, including mathematics, science, special education, and instruction of limited English proficient students.

Assessment Pass Rates

THIS PAGE INCLUDES:

The pass rates table is populated from files provided by the testing company or state. The table provides information on the performance of the students in your teacher preparation program on each teacher credential assessment used by your state. In cases where a student has taken a given assessment more than once, the highest score on that test is used. In the case of a teacher preparation program with fewer than 10 scores reported on any single initial teacher credential assessment during an academic year, the program shall collect and publish information with respect to an average pass rate and scaled score on each state credential assessment taken over a three-year period. \(§205\(a\)\(1\)\(B\)\)

Please note that this page does not have an edit feature as the pass rates have already been through several rounds of verification. If you identify an error, please contact RTI's Title II Support Center and your testing company representative.

Summary Pass Rates

The pass rates table is populated from files provided by the testing company or state. The table provides information on the performance of the students in your teacher preparation program on each teacher credential assessment used by your state. In cases where a student has taken a given assessment more than once, the highest score on that test is used. In the case of a teacher preparation program with fewer than 10 scores reported on any single initial teacher credential assessment during an academic year, the program shall collect and publish information with respect to an average pass rate and scaled score on each state credential assessment taken over a three-year period. \(§205\(a\)\(1\)\(B\)\)

Please note that this page does not have an edit feature as the pass rates have already been through several rounds of verification. If you identify an error, please contact RTI's Title II Support Center and your testing company representative.

2. Provide a description of the evidence that your program uses to show that it prepares teachers to integrate technology effectively into curricula and instruction, and to use technology effectively to collect, manage, and analyze data in order to improve teaching and learning for the purpose of increasing student academic achievement. Include a description of the evidence your program uses to show that it prepares teachers to use the principles of universal design for learning, as applicable. Include planning activities and a timeline if any of the four elements listed above are not currently in place.

Candidates learn how to deliver lessons in multiple modalities such as asynchronous online, hybrid, and face-to-face formats using multiple learning management systems. Throughout their coursework, candidates explore best practices in technology integration, have hands-on practice with tools such as formative digital assessment software, cloud office suites, LMS software, collaborative software, and other tools for technology integration. Students are taught how to use technology tools within their lessons to support various learners within the classroom environment. Candidates participate in a virtual reality simulations to practice lesson design and delivery. Candidates also use virtual interaction software to deliver lessons and give live feedback. During field experiences, candidates observe practicing teachers' integration of classroom or district technology in teaching with technology to further develop their own practices. Candidates practice using field experience lesson data to assess student learning and to develop lessons and interventions differentiated to student needs. Candidates also develop assessments aligned with state standards and use spreadsheets, tables, and grading software to collect, manage, and analyze data to improve student learning. Candidates are required to assess lessons, aggregate and analyze data, and determine whether the lesson had the desired impact, and redesign their lessons to improve student learning.

Teacher Training

Provide the following information about your teacher preparation program.

(§205(a)(1)(G))

Note: This section is preloaded from the prior year's IPRC.

Teacher Training

1. Provide a description of the activities that prepare general education teachers to:

a. Teach students with disabilities effectively

Through coursework and clinical experiences, candidates are trained in developmental needs of students and the interventions and accommodations needed for students with disabilities. During their training, candidates work with special educators and learn about assessing needs and collaborating to meet goals. Through coursework, candidates receive specific instruction in the development of differentiated curriculum planning, instruction, and assessment to meet the needs of student with disabilities and IEPs. Minnesota Standards of Effective Practice from the Professional Education Licensing and Standards Board (PELSB) are included with course content and are monitored with assessments to evaluate candidate competency.

b. Participate as a member of individualized education program teams, as defined in section 614(d)(1)(B) of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act.

Through coursework and clinical experiences, candidates learn about special education law and how to work alongside special educators and students to assess and address student needs as part of a collaborative team.

c. Effectively teach students who are limited English proficient.

Candidates are trained to work effectively with students with limited English proficiency through coursework and clinical experiences. During clinical experiences, candidates work with EL specialists to assess and work collaboratively to meet the needs of students with limited English proficiency. Course work provides specific instruction in the development of differentiated curriculum planning, instruction, and assessment to support the development of students' English proficiency. Minnesota Standards of Effective Practice from the Professional Education Licensing and Standards Board (PELSB) are included with course content and are monitored with assessments to evaluate candidate competency. In addition, since fall 2010 elementary and secondary education majors are required to complete a methods course that includes teaching students with limited English proficiency. Field experiences and student teaching require candidates to document the needs of diverse populations in the classroom and to demonstrate assessment of impact on diverse student populations. This is completed in part with the edTPA documentation required for teacher candidates and also through a survey administered during student teaching.

2. Does your program prepare special education teachers?

- Yes
 No

If yes, provide a description of the activities that prepare special education teachers to:

a. Teach students with disabilities effectively

Our program contains specific classes in research-validated instructional strategies that have been proven effective for working with students with disabilities. Evidence regarding candidate and graduate competencies in these areas is routinely acquired through our Common Metrics Surveys (described in Contextual Information). Candidates report on their preparation to meet the needs of special education and limited English proficient students as they complete their programs. Graduates also complete the Transition to Teaching Survey at the end of their first year of teaching and their employers complete the Supervisor Survey at approximately the same time. Multiple items on these surveys allow us to gain a sense of how well-prepared our candidates/graduates are in these respective areas.

b. Participate as a member of individualized education program teams, as defined in section 614(d)(1)(B) of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act.

Continuous emphasis is given to individualized education program teams throughout our program, including courses in Due Process, Planning, and Design of IEPs, Special Education Law, Transition Planning, and Assessment, Evaluation, and Individualized Planning for Diverse Learners in our coursework.

c. Effectively teach students who are limited English proficient.

Coursework and clinical experiences include and incorporate teaching strategies for students who are English Language Learners.

Contextual Information

Please use this space to provide any additional information that describes your teacher preparation program(s). You may also attach information to this report card (see below). The U.S. Department of Education is especially interested in any evaluation plans or interim or final reports that may be available.

Committed to serving children, families and communities, the College of Education (COE) vision is to inspire lifelong learning and professional engagement through racial consciousness, social justice, and inclusion within a global context. Its mission is to prepare professionals through research and evidence-based practices who demonstrate excellence in their profession. The primary role of COE is to prepare professional educators, counselors, and education leaders. The college consists of a unique blend of academic programs, support services, partnerships and outreach. The intensity of preparing candidates for the profession requires a significant investment in human resources, knowledge and skill development, and professional assessments. The college includes 65 teacher preparation programs in Elementary Education, Special Education, and K-12 and Secondary Programs. The college maintains rigorous standards set forth by the professional education community, and the majority of its programs have secured and maintained national accreditation and state licensure approval for decades. Minnesota State University, Mankato continues to focus on effective partnerships, high quality field experiences, and high-quality clinical practice as central to our preparation programs. Toward these efforts, the College of Education (COE) provides continuing education and customized training opportunities for practitioners in the field through a variety of professional centers. The college includes the Center for Educator Partnerships and Student Support who oversees the academic advising office within the college, collaborates with other center directors on professional development and student support activities, and convenes the Governance Council with Partner District Superintendents and the College of Education Dean. The goals of the partnership initiatives include 1) supporting collaborative projects that meet the needs of individual buildings in a district; 2) providing professional development opportunities for in-service and pre-service teachers; 3) offering quality clinical experiences for pre-service teachers; 4) providing mentorship opportunities for pre-service and beginning teachers; 5) providing for educational exchanges to share resources and best practices; and 6) increasing student achievement in P-12 classrooms. The Office of Field and International Experience is another source of training and support for teacher candidates and supervisors. The Director facilitates the Teacher Candidate Support Network (TCSN), which includes the Directors of the Office of Field and International Experience, the Center for Educator Support, the Center for Educator Partnerships and Student Support as well as adjuncts serving as university supervisors and Teachers on Special Assignment who serve as school-university liaisons with school districts and University Supervisors. Professional learning for TCSN is planned for by representatives from each stakeholder group and carried out by a variety of these stakeholders. Professional development sessions have focused on (a) culturally relevant and responsive teaching, (b) anti-racist practices, (c) using edTPA data to better understand how to work with candidates so they are ready to produce quality work for assessment, (d) using edTPA outcomes to design strategies for program growth and enhancement, (e) using a lens of social justice and racial equity in candidate preparation/ In addition, student teaching candidates are provide seminars focused on (a) developing culturally relevant and responsive pedagogy, (b) addressing trauma in the school setting, (c) helping candidates understand and meet the instructional needs of English Language Learners, (d) enhancing opportunities for candidates to become familiar with the job interview and application processes through expert panels, coaching, and practice interviews, and (e) soliciting feedback from candidates at the conclusion of their program for program improvement. The Center for Educator Support provides professional development to help educators become more confident, capable, and effective practitioners. The center has developed a model of support for educators that spans pre-service to in-service. This impacts teacher candidates who are in preparation to become professional educators and continues to support them even after they obtain employment in schools. The center contracts with the New Teacher Center to refine and develop its model of pre-service mentoring throughout field experiences and student teaching. The New Teacher Center includes a platform for the collection of data. Data is analyzed and used to improve mentoring practice and engage in research studies related to powerful practice. The College of Education teacher licensure programs also participate in a network of fourteen teacher preparation programs located in Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota known as NEXt (Network of Excellence in Teacher Education). The network administers a set of four common surveys (known as Common Metrics) to evaluate program effectiveness and engage collaboratively across the IHEs to design, implement and evaluate continuous improvement efforts and strategies. The surveys are administered at entry to teacher preparation, program completion and one year after graduation. A parallel Supervisor Survey is administered to principals of graduates at the same time the graduate survey is administered. Results on the surveys are combined with other measures of performance and achievement (e.g. edTPA, MNES, observations) to assist faculty in their continuous improvement program planning. Further, the NEXt collaborative is exploring additional methods for assessing the impact of its teacher program completers on P-12 student learning.
