Minnesota State University, Mankato has a commitment to a respectful learning environment. Students have the right to seek a remedy for a decision they believe a campus office/department has made is unfair, arbitrary, or capricious. The variance process is designed to formalize the method by which a student may appeal a decision relating to knowledge, skills, dispositions, or program requirements. Students interested in submitting a variance request, should log into Student Information Management System - SIMS, complete the on-line form and submit it.
